Mexican Leader Ready to Resume Negotiations With the United States and Tells His Sympa- thizers Must Have Finan- cial Aid

Mexico City, March 18.—Forced by the increasing seriousness of the situation in Mexico—from a financial rather than a military view point, however—President Huerta at last appears to be ready to resume negotiations with John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, which were broken off last August, is reported current in the capital tonight.

The minister of foreign affairs, Jose Lopez Portillo Rojas, has been directed to re-open the unofficial diplomatic exchanges with Mr. Lind, according to the report here, and for that purpose went to Vera Cruz today.

Whether he will meet Mr. Lind at Vera Cruz or at some point further removed from the general public is not known.

Every effort has been made to keep the meeting a secret, and should it for any reason fail to take place, the government would be in a position to fall back on the explanation already given—that the minister is taking the trip to celebrate Saints day, and color is given to this by the fact that he was accompanied by his wife and other members of his family.

President Huerta today summoned to the national palace 60 of the wealthiest Mexicans residing in the capital and intimated that indirect financial support would be highly agreeable, in view of the vigorous campaign against the rebels which he proposes to inaugurate. He reminded them that a decree issued several months ago, calling upon owners of haciendas to equip and maintain ten men for purposes of defense has never been complied with and he urged them now to do this.

Such compliance would mean, according to the financial figures, the maintenance of 500,000 men as it is estimated that there are 52,000 haciendas and smaller ranches within the Federal jurisdiction. President Huerta also requested these men to furnish him with horses in sufficient number for 120 cannon which he expects to arrive soon from Japan and Europe.

Asks for Moral Support

He asked their moral support, suggesting that they form a sort of military society, not for the purpose of fighting, but that insignia be worn by the members to identify them as being on the side of the government.

The report that a large number of those who mulcted recently at Joquela had been executed is based on a verbal statement made by General Jimenez Castro to the war minister. General Castro was recalled from the military governorship and reached here yesterday. The war office has no other information relative to the alleged executions.

General Castro reported that after the engineers, who numbered about 1000, and were reinforced by Zapata adherents, had abandoned Joquela, they were closely pursued by the federalists. Many of them were killed in battle, the prisoners at a village near the Morelos-Guerrero state line.

SERVICE TO BE IMPROVED

May Attach a Letter to Parcel Post—Merchants and Manufacturers Delighted.

While the latest order of Postmaster General Burleson has not reached the local postoffice, the announcement that he has signed one permitting the attaching of a letter to a package when both bear their respective rates of postage, and are addressed to the same individual, was hailed as a great boon when the information was imparted to the local postoffice authorities yesterday.

Heretofore persons have not been permitted to send a communication with a parcel post package, the package being checked up as first class matter if a letter were sent with it or at the highest rate its contents would mail for. Firms have been permitted to send an invoice of the contents of the package but this has not been generally known.

The new order will make it possible for a man to ship a pair of shoes or several pairs on a consignment of shoe findings and accompany the package with a letter of instruction to a salesman with the assurance that both will reach their destination at the same time.

Commencing Monday books over eight ounces may be sent by parcel post, this being one of the latest regulations to be adopted. Another order is that printed matter of a miscellaneous nature over four pounds will be accepted by parcel post. Should the package weigh four pounds or under it will not be accepted as anything less than first class rates however.

NO PLACE FOR A NAVY YARD

Rear Admiral Chadwick, Retired, Decrees Narragansett for Establishment of Station.

Rear Admiral French E. Chadwick, retired, in an open letter at Newport, says that there is no chance at present for a navy yard to be established at Narragansett Bay. The New York yard is so far superior from a strategic standpoint he says, owing to the widely separated exits, one at Sandy Hook and the other at the head of the Sound near New London, so that it could only be blockaded by double the force necessary to blockade a harbor with a single entrance. The subject has been agitated by the recent action of the Representative Council here in appropriating one thousand dollars to further the proposition of a vast naval base costing approximately $100,000,000.

In spite of Rear Admiral Chadwick's contention, it has been asserted that it would be impossible to navigate the largest battleships through the Narrows in New York Bay. Captain Welles told the House naval committee members last year, when they were at Newport that Narragansett Bay was the best place for a large naval base on the Atlantic coast and laid particular stress on the market for skilled labor available there and the depth of the water in the bay.

PLEASING RECITAL

Small Audience Hears Miss
McIntosh Give Fine
Musical.

What was undoubtedly one of the finest recitals ever heard in this city was given at Association hall, in the Y. M. C. A. building on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Miss Margaret McIntosh of Arlington, Mass.

The only pity is that the hall was not packed with standing room at a premium, for it was deserving of it, but owing to the inclemency of the weather, only a fair number attended.

The concert program included not only American, English and Scottish classics, but also selections from the Japanese opera "Madama Butterfly," as well as German and French folk songs. The program consisted of seventeen numbers, with the encores in addition, included in this number was the ever welcome "O, Sleep, Why Don't Thou Leave Me?" from "Semele" by Handel. Every number was a treat and gave range to the quality of her voice, which is sweet and harmonious, ever changing from sad and pathetic, vivacious, powerful and strong, which reveals her faithful and thorough training.

The first part opened with that sweet pretty melody "My Mother Blame Me Not" which was beautifully sung as well as the others down through a finely selected program. Special mention should be made of "The Merman's Song," "Wegentel" and "Un Bel Di Vedremo," and also the "Seed Song," which reflects much credit on the soloist.

The "Lullaby" (Blake) written by Mrs. Baynard especially for Miss McIntosh's voice, was sung for the first time and was certainly the gem of the program.

"The Gypsy Song" was finely rendered and was perfectly suited to her beautiful coloratura soprano voice and reminded one of the famous "Mad Scene from Lucia."

The encore "Coon Song" was the finishing touch to the well arranged selections.

None of the encomiums showered upon her in advance seemed extravagant after hearing her. Miss McIntosh is a young lady of charming appearance, with a good humored smile, and fascinating little mannerisms. Her voice is sweet and beautiful, full of feeling and expression, and of sufficient flexibility and range to do well the work entrusted to it.

Miss McIntosh sang rather at a disadvantage, owing to four weeks' illness from a severe attack of laryngitis, but in spite of this, the audience could not detect this from her rendition of the songs.

Miss McIntosh resides in Rutland, Wyoming, and graduated from Wellesley college, afterwards studying under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Hunt of Boston. Miss McIntosh sings at the Congregational church in Norwood, Mass., and has a studio in Boston, where she has a large number of pupils. She has spent much time in Portsmouth and made many friends who were glad to welcome her again.

COULD THE WORLD TENNIS CHAMPION

JAY GOULD, AMERICAN AMATEUR CHAMPION, DEFEATS O. F. COVEY, ENGLISH, WORLD'S PROFESSIONAL CHAMPION, 7 SETS TO 0, 0-0, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, 5-6, 6-1.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Sensation in tennis marked the second day's play in the match for the world's open court tennis championship, which was begun on the court of the Philadelphia Racquet Club on Monday between Jay Gould, the American amateur champion, and George F. Covey, of England, world's professional champion.

In the first set this afternoon, the American champion appeared to be up to the wonderful form displayed on Monday, when he completely outclassed the British representative and won four straight sets. This afternoon Mr. Gould won the first set, allowing Covey only two games. In this set the seventh game was particularly contested, being the longest of the match thus far. It was finally captured by Mr. Gould, after going to seven many times.

Mr. Gould won the second set this afternoon, six games to three, continuing his marvellous form, his recoveries being and his strokes for the winning openings unerring. It appeared at this point that the amateur would defeat the professional for the highest honors in the ancient court game without the latter being unable to gain a set.

The unexpected happened, however, in the third set of the afternoon, and the seventh of the match, when Covey by a supreme effort, captured the set at six games to five, thus saving himself from the humiliation of a straight set defeat. The score shows how bitterly contested was this set, with Mr. Gould only a game from the goal of his desire, which would have been unprecedented in all the history of the game.

Covey's stand was only a flash in the pan, however, for Mr. Gould came back and with consummate ease captured the eighth and deciding set by a score of six games to one.

TO CROWN HER LOVE

By EMILY BEZ.

They had celebrated together the advent of each New Year since the first year of their acquaintance. That meant five celebrations. And each had ended with a declaration from him which she parried, and a question from him to which she would not give definite answer.

That night they sat in the glittering restaurant, part of the noisy hilarious crowd, and yet by their sincerity and simplicity differentiated from that crowd.

With the rest of the crowd they ate, drank and laughed.

A bell struck, and at the sound the great noisy throng hushed suddenly, voluntarily, expectantly. A distant door opened and a silken sliver page led in a rosy child, typifying the New Year. A thousand chiming rang out. The diners sprang to their feet, and the scene in the restaurant became pandemonium. She alone was silent, with a fixed smile. As her escort joined those about them in the cry of Happy New Year! she only smiled and smiled. Had she emitted a single sound, it would have been a cry.

The first confusion over, they settled in their chairs again. Her eyes were fixed upon her plate. Before raising them she must be sure that they were veiled. Last year he had seized this moment to speak to her. This year—could she live through this year?

He was relating a story, doubtless amusing. With an effort she gave him attention. Something was wrong. He no longer cared. Could she keep him from knowing that she did, that after all, she did? He would not speak.

Rather abruptly he leaned back, as if he, too, wearied of the face they played. "Aren't you bored with this, Alice? It only lasts—so long. Let's go."

She nodded and rose. He held her, and as she slipped into its loose warm folds, his fingers touched her shoulder. She could feel the warm blood rise to that touch, and miserably conscious, she fastened her wrap without a glance in his direction. He picked up her white gloves and banded them to her. She observed, with dull surprise, that his hand was a bit unsteady. In a flash she recollected—she was almost positive of it—that the fingers touching her shoulder had trembled. She looked up at him swiftly, caught him off guard, and read the bitterness in his eyes.

Threading her way before him, through lines of colorful sparkling tables, the distance to the door seemed interminably long. She must verify that glimpse into his soul. If she had seen aright, then he still cared. It was only indifference that proved the death of love.

As the cold air of the street smote them, they breathed deeply of its freshness. "Let's walk," he said. Again she only nodded. "Now," she thought, "Now, perhaps he will speak." But they walked on in silence, a silence almost unbearable to both of them. It was after they had traveled many blocks, passed out of the district of garish merry-making, were approaching the threshold at which they must part, that she took her fate in her hands.

"Tonight," she said, endeavoring to speak casually, lightly, "we have omitted a part of our ancient and honorable formula."

"Since it is only a formula," he said, "it is better omitted. The times are against formalism."

"But the occasion is not complete without it," she persisted, with a soft laugh, the while her eyes were blank with pain.

"It is not only complete, but finished," he said. They walked on. She was praying for strength to carry her through the little distance remaining, until—until the end. So he thought she had trifled with him! He would not understand. A wild determination came to her. He should understand! As though they had both been speaking frankly, she said, "I will answer your words of last year, and the year before, and years before. I could not give myself to you while I was a failure. I should have been less worth winning. I have succeeded now. The commission has come to me, to make the mural paintings for the New Center. It will be in the papers tomorrow. You are the only one who knows."

"Then you are worth winning now?" he asked calmly.

"Now," she said to herself, "my heart will surely break."

"It is only when you love that you are worth winning. When you love, and when I love you."

"Now," she said to herself, "my heart is surely broken. It does not matter what I say now." To him she said, in a voice like death, "I understand. It is too late."

"I am bitter against you," he said. "I am sorry. It is hard for a man to forgive the woman who does not want him, the woman who prefers success to love."

"But I am not that woman," she said, throwing what was left of her pride to the four winds.

He asked, scarcely above his breath: "Do you mean—that you care for love—my love?"

And now she would not answer. They had reached the threshold of their parting. They passed over it and into the dimly lighted, deserted hall.

He gathered her into his arms. "I wanted success," she whispered, "only—to crown my love."

TRAIN ROBBER GETS $20,000

Bundles Messenger Into Sack and Escapes With Big Booty.

Beaumont, Texas, March 18.—After bundling the messenger, "Rob" Martin, into a gunny sack, a masked man today robbed the express car attached to northbound Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe passenger train No. 202, of currency estimated to aggregate between $5,000 and $20,000 and escaped from the train at the village of Helwig, 12 miles north of Beaumont.

Up to a late hour tonight, posses which went to Helwig from this city in automobiles had not found trace of the bandit, who is believed to be hiding in the dense forest about the village.

The train was bound from Houston to Center Texas, and it is believed the robber secreted himself in the express car before the train left Houston early today. Martin said the man, who apparently was middle aged, beamed from

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Try This! Hair Gets Thick, Glossy, Wavy and Beautiful at Once—Stops Falling Hair

Immediately?—Yes!—Certain!—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant, and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderline Hair Cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderline and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggly, faded, gray, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderline dissolves every particle of dandruff, chafes, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Danderline from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

MEET AFTER MANY YEARS

Joyful Reunion When Rochester Woman Meets Her Mother.

After years of separation, Mrs. Martha Glick of 440 Main street, Rochester, N. H., and her daughter, whom she had not seen since she was a year old, were reunited at the Allan Line Pier in Charlestown last evening, upon the arrival of the steamship London from Glasgow and Moville.

On the deck of the steamer when she arrived was a young woman who scanned the faces of the crowd on the pier and when her eyes rested on an elderly woman, she gave a little cry of joy. The woman on the steamer was Mrs. Mary Nesbitt and the woman she recognized was her mother, whom she knew through a striking resemblance to her aunt in Ireland.

The mother who left the little girl with her grandmother in Belfast when she came to this country with her husband, had not seen the daughter since she was a baby.

Mrs. Nesbitt with her husband and her three small children, came to join her mother. There was an affectionate meeting when Mrs. Nesbitt was allowed to land. Mrs. Nesbitt made her home with her grandmother in Belfast until eight years ago when she was married. The family will go to Rochester to live with her mother.

COAL

Is one of the things that contributes largely to our enjoyment. While it goes up largely in smoke, it leaves behind genial warmth to the occupants of the house.

Cold weather rapidly decreases the coal bin, and if your supply is growing small, better let us replenish it at once. Prices will be no lower and you may have difficulty in securing coal later.

INCOME RETURNS ARE
"INVOLABLY CONFIDENTIAL"

Warning has been issued to all collectors of internal revenue that income tax returns are "involabily confidential," that disclosure of returns is in violation of the law, and the slightest infraction will be punished. The warning was in the form of a letter from Secretary McAdoo to Commissioner Osborne. Secretary McAdoo writes:

Please impress upon collectors of internal revenue in every district in the country the importance of preserving inviolably all income tax returns. Not only is this the law, but the point I wish to impress upon them is that the Department will expect every collector and every employee to observe this law strictly, and that the slightest infraction of it will be severely punished. I should like to have all the collectors of internal revenue directed to keep vigilant watch over the employees, with a view to the prompt detection of any offender. It would be nothing short of a scandal for any of these returns to be given out. I earnestly hope that it will not develop during this Administration or during any succeeding one, that any employee of this Department could be so faithless as to violate the laws of his country or be indifferent to his trust.

THIS STOMACH REMEDY
HELPS YOUR FRIENDS

Almost every day some grateful person comes into our store and tells us of benefits received from the use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Knowing how much good they have done others and knowing what they are made of, we feel sure they will help you. So great is our faith in them that we urge you to try them entirely at our risk, with our personal promise that if they don't do all you expect them to do and make your stomach comfortable and healthy and your digestion easy, we'll hand back your money. We couldn't endorse anything more strongly than we do Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. They contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science, they soothe the stomach, check heartburn and distress, promote a natural flow of the gastric juice, and help regulate the bowels. Remember, if they don't make your digestion so easy and comfortable, that you can eat whatever you like whenever you like, we want you to come back and tell us and get your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall stores, and in this town, only at our store. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.—Boardman and Norton, Opposite the Postoffice, Portsmouth, N. H.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED
BY THE G. A. R.

At the regular meeting of Storer Post No. 1, G. A. R., held Wednesday evening, March 18th, 1914, the following resolutions and resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted by rising vote:

Whereas:

At a regular meeting of Storer Post No. 1, Department of New Hampshire, G. A. R., held on Wednesday evening, March 18th, 1914, our Post Adjutant, Comrade M. H. Bell, acting for, and in behalf of, our ever devoted friend and benefactor Col. George A. Dana, unfolded and presented for the acceptance of our said Post a large and beautiful creation of our National Emblem, and:

Resolved:—

That the anonymous thanks of this Post be, and is, hereby most sincerely and heartily tendered to our esteemed fellow citizen and thoughtful benefactor Col. George A. Dana, not only for his beautiful gift and its intrinsic value, but more especially for that loyalty to our beloved Post, as evidenced by the choice of his most appropriate gift; and more than all the rest; that patriotic loyalty and devotion to his country and her starry flag that prompted his kind and thoughtful act, and be it further:

Resolved:—

That a copy of these Preambles and resolutions be spread upon the records of this Post, and tendered to the daily press for publication.

NO REPORT OF BATTLE TO STATE DEPARTMENT

Washington, March 19.—No reference to the pending battle near Torreon was contained in any dispatches received at the State Department.

Over eight official dispatches were summarized in this statement. "The release of Andrew Hamilton, arrested with Agard and Gonschmidt, has been reported. The other two men, it is thought, will be transferred to Mexico City, in accordance with orders to Federal Mexican officers to send all foreigners arrested on charge of furnishing aid to the rebels to the capital."

"Trains run via Saltillo to Ciudad Portillo Diaz and to Torreon. Monterey is reported quiet."

"Further destruction of railroad property by the Revolutionists at Monclova is reported. Federalists are in possession of the city. In the fighting there it is reported that three Americans were fighting with the Carrancistas and that two were killed."

FIERCE FIGHT AT ESCALON

El Paso, Tex., March 18.—The thousands of persons in this section whose fortunes are linked up in the military and political developments in Mexico awaited today authentic information of the reported battle north of Torreon. In the last 24 hours excepted through the censor, and over the single telegraph line connecting Juarez with the present war zone.

Meanwhile Federal agents here asserted that Gen. Villa moving confidently in the direction of Torreon, and daily came upon the Federalists a hundred miles north of where he had expected them, was defeated at Escalon, on the main line of the railway and at Rosario.

If the claims of the Federalists are correct, Gen. Villa is in a precarious position, with an enemy in front and another threatening by a flank movement to occupy his rear.

Federalists asserted—and there were rumors to the same effect: in the rebel camp at Juarez—that the first Federal detachment moved out of Torreon west of a range of mountains beyond which lie Escalon and the railroad. This column, proceeding in the direction of Parral, is said to have come upon the rebel Gen. Urbina at Rosario and forced him to retreat pending the arrival of reinforcements. Rosario is 100 miles west of Juarez, and the latter city is directly to the rear of Escalon.

Is Much of Rebel Army Cut Off?

The Federal attack at Escalon apparently was delayed until the western column on the other side of the mountains had engaged Urbina. Federalists here claim that not only was the rebel western column defeated at Rosario but that it was unable to prevent the entry of the Huerta troops into Juarez.

If this proves true much of Villa's army has been cut off from retreat with enemies in front and behind and mountains and the desert on either side.

This feature of the story, however, received little credence here. Ready belief was found for the report that the Federal forces were defeated at Escalon, but it is pointed out that the Constitutionalists, by retreating a few miles to Belian, could occupy rifle pits and trenches constructed in the course of previous revolutions and there make a fresh stand.

The number of men engaged in the alleged battles can only be guessed at and even rumor omits to mention dead and wounded except in the case of Gen. Benavides, reported by Huertistas here to have been killed at Escalon, where his column the Zaragoza Brigade of 1300 men is said to have borne the brunt of the Federal attack.

MADERO CO'S PROPERTY

Juarez, Mex., March 18.—Property of the Madero Company, Ltd., at Pearson, Chihuahua, was raided yesterday. A large quantity of merchandise from the company stores was seized by bandits under Manuel Gutierrez.

The raid closely followed the murder of Oscar Allen, an American, who had been employed as watchman at the store of the American company. Consul Edwards' advice said that the guard of Villa's insurgent soldiers previously placed at the American lumbering town had been removed before the raid.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE
SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Moves Acids, Gases and Clogged-up Waste from Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Cure Indigestion

Get a ten cent box now.

That awful surging, belching of gas and food gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nausea, nausea, bloating after eating, and dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any. Try Cascarets, they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipation, waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret (tonight) will straighten you out by morning—a ten cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need good, gentle cleansing too.

LUCK IN HORSESHOES

The old superstition of nailing a horseshoe over the door of a house as a protection against evil spirits and an assurance of good luck is as widely spread in the United States as it is in England or Ireland. It also prevails among nearly all Teutonic and Scandinavian races, and flourishes largely in the East and West Indies and Hindustan. There are three elements united in the horseshoe—in the first place, it is crescent-shaped; secondly, it is a portion of a horse, and lastly it is made of iron.

Popular superstition has long endowed iron with protecting qualities. During the time of the plague, in Rome the inhabitants of the Eternal City drove nails into the walls of their houses as a safe-guard against the dread disease. When the Arabs are overtaken in the desert by the deadly shooon, they seek succor from heaven by crying "Iron! Iron!" Celtic, Finnish, and Welsh superstitions all agree that against witchcraft iron is considered the only guard. Cynics even recite that it has always been considered a good omen to find old iron, and particularly to find an old horseshoe. In the mythology of England horses were and are to this day looked upon as luck-bringers. In some parts of England it is still thought that many forms of disease can be cured by burning a horse alive. A horse's hoof placed under an invalid's bed is considered a specific for many complaints in the north of Scotland. Many years ago in Ireland, so it is said, upon the death of a horse its feet and legs were hung up in the house, and even the hoofs were kept sacred. All of which, it is claimed, serve as a preventive of ill-luck or disease.

On account of its form, historians state that the qualities formerly accorded to the crescent have been transferred to the horseshoe. The Chinese built their tombs at the present day in a semicircular form like a horse shoe, and the Moors use it in their architecture. Lord Nelson nailed a horseshoe to the mast of his flagship Victory, and guarded it as if it had been a citadel.—Japan Chronicle.

STREET THICK WITH STEAM

The breaking of a condenser pipe at the plant of the Rockingham Light and Power Company on Daniel street, on Wednesday morning, made it necessary to exhaust the steam through the roof exhaust pipe.

The atmospheric conditions were such that the steam was driven down into the street and the what being cast, it soon made the lower end of Daniel street thick. It extended up beyond City Hall and at times it was so thick that the trees on the lawn could not be seen from the windows.

The repairs were made so that the steam was shut off at 4 o'clock.

ARMY OFFICER HELD; AC-COUNTS SAID TO BE SHORT

Captain J. H. Griffiths, U. S. A., connected with the quartermaster's department in Seattle, Wash., was summarily suspended from duty yesterday and ordered confined to his quarters by Major Hugh J. Gallagher, in charge of the office. An alleged shortage of $8000 in Ordnance accounts, as disbursing officer was the reason assigned. As disbursing officer for the 1st Cavalry division and for the depot Captain Griffiths was directly responsible to his superiors in Washington, making his reports to them without submitting them to the head of the Seattle office. Major Gallagher, for supervision. He is a bonded officer.

There was a good sized audience present at a vocalization hall on Wednesday evening, and were greatly interested in the opera talk by Mr. Havrah Hubbard of Boston, assisted by Fred Hester and George Everett. The latter sang a group of songs illustrating the opera jewels of the Madonna.

The talk was under the auspices of the Civic Association.

VETERAN LIFE SAVER

Death of Capt. Littlefield of the New Shoreham Station—Lived on Block Island All His Life.

Block Island, R. I., March 18.—Capt. Augustus Littlefield, keeper of the New Shoreham life-saving station for a quarter of a century, died at the station today. He was born Feb. 28, 1848, on the island and lived here all his life. In 1876 he entered the life-saving service as a surfman and became keeper of the station on Aug. 8, 1880. During his 38 years of continuous service he encountered many thrilling experiences and is credited with a great many heroic deeds.

Capt. Littlefield is survived by a widow and daughter, who live in New York.

POLICE COURT

In police court Wednesday afternoon before Judge H. K. Torrey Leslie Armstrong was charged with assault on Michael Mahoney and on his wife. On the first he was fined $10 and costs of $0.18 and on the second $15 and costs. On the charge against him on statutory grounds he claimed he was married, while the woman who has been living with him, stated they were never married, but in court said they were. The case was continued for a trial the police to get the record of the marriage, if any, at Woodford.

Trophin Erwin and John Mettrouk, both Portsmouth, were charged with assault and fined $5 and costs of $0.10 each.

The Elks may well feel proud of their new home. They have not spared expense and the result is a very fine job. It will be opened formally very soon.

Nothing Can Keep Fresh After It Is Cut Up

You can't expect the chopped-up tobacco that comes in packages to be fresh, because it has been chopped up too long a time. Most of the natural moisture and flavor escapes from the small particles of tobacco before they are put in the package. By the time you smoke them, they are so dry that they burn fast and bite your tongue.

All the flavor and fragrance of the tobacco is pressed into the Sickle Plug and held there by nature's own covering—the natural leaf wrapper. When you whittle a pipeful off the plug you get fresh tobacco—slow-burning, cool-smoking, rich and sweet.

You don't pay for a package—don't waste any tobacco—and get more tobacco for your money. Buy some Sickle at your dealer's today. You'll find the Sickle way is the only way to get a satisfying smoke.

Honest Advertising.

In a recent address before a body of professional men in an eastern city the speaker took for his subject "Service." He said all men should be actuated by the spirit of service, and told of the service to mankind that is being performed by men in the different professions, by business men and by the church.

Among other things the speaker touched upon advertising in a way that should be of interest to advertisers everywhere and to the public generally. He told of the improvement that has been made in advertising methods and showed that many of the evils and mistakes in this branch of activity have been eliminated as the result of a steadily rising standard in business circles. The speaker said that honesty is the bedrock of judicious advertising in this age, and that it prevails to a greater extent than ever before. Among other things he said: "The slogan of advertising clubs and of the associated advertising clubs, the national body, is 'Truth,' and advertising men of character are everywhere keying their advertisements to this slogan, so that the public in reading the advertisements may rely upon their accurately describing the things sought to be sold; and, in addition, through the influence of these clubs, dominated by the spirit of service, legislation for the prevention of fraudulent advertising is being enacted."

Those are true words. There never was a time when advertising was done on such a scale as today, and never a time when advertisements were so reliable. Advertisers have learned by experience that honesty in this field, as in all others, is the best policy and are governing themselves accordingly. As a result their announcements, particularly in the home papers, are read not only with interest, but with a feeling that the statements are to be relied upon. This begets confidence, and the business man who holds the confidence of the public is pretty certain to succeed.

This is pre-eminently the age of advertising, which is an indispensable necessity in the present rapid movement of business, and the man who advertises constantly, carefully and honestly is the man who wins.

It begins to look as if Charles S. Mellen, former head of the New Haven railroad system, might escape trial on the charge of manslaughter, based on the killing of a woman in a railroad wreck which he was no where near at the time. And perhaps this would be just as well. To many the case has looked from the start like a continuation of the dogging which has at last put the system in a hole, with by no means agreeable results to the territory it serves.

A Philadelphia church has introduced an innovation by having hymns sung by a choir of girls, accompanied by a chorus of boy whistlers. The effect of the first trial is said to have been startling, and this will readily be believed. But just how much the interests of religion will be advanced by this sort of thing is open to question.

Retirement from the presidency doesn't keep Mr. Taft entirely off the circuit. He is now spending a busy week in Minneapolis, attending luncheons, delivering lectures and addresses and all that sort of thing. He likes it, and so do those that hear him.

The Massachusetts and Connecticut peach crops are said to have been badly injured by the severe cold of the winter, but if the damage is confined to that area the country will not suffer. The main supply of peaches comes from points further south.

A child labor conference is in progress in New Orleans. It will be well if it induces the southern manufacturers to bring the labor conditions in their mills a little nearer the level maintained in the northern states.

Vice President Marshall is young at 60, and says he keeps so by not thinking about his age. It is a practice that may well be adopted by those who imagine that they are edging along a little too fast.

Exports from this country are said to have increased a billion dollars in the last decade. And there are some who feel that among the exports there was more beef than there should have been.

There is complaint in some quarters that college men do not write good English. If this is so it is doubtless equally true that other college men fail to note the shortcoming, so what's the odds.

If Boston is to maintain a free soup kitchen it ought to keep enough soup on hand to go around. The papers of that city say that 500 men were turned away hungry the other night.

The Mad Mullah is again on the warpath, but he will have to step lively to attract much attention just now. There are others.

Foe of Home Rule In Ireland Now Considering a Compromise.

Sir Edward Carson, member of parliament from Ulster, is the present storm center of the home rule agitation in Ireland. Sir Edward says he favors war if home rule goes into effect in Ireland, and a movement is now under way to effect a compromise by which the county of Ulster will not be affected by home rule legislation for several years.

LITERARY NOTES

The April Woman's Home Companion

The April Woman's Home Companion contains the clearest and most interesting report of the militant movement in England that has yet appeared in any American periodical. It is called "John Bull's Militant Daughters" and is written by J. Nilson Laurvik. The article shows exactly where in English women are discriminated against by English laws, and although it does not of course justify violence, it at least explains it.

Other interesting articles in the April Companion are: "The New Freedom for Little Children," by Mary Heaton Vorse; "The Other World," by Charles E. Jefferson; "A Two-Weeks' Trip in Italy," by Albert Lee; "Amateur Dramatics," by Sally Conrad Paunier; "The World's Greatest Paintings," by Laura Spencer Porter; and "The Kitchen Garden," by Franz Benier.

A further report of the Better Babies movement is included, accompanied by a "two-page spread" containing photographs of one hundred and one prize babies.

Fiction is contributed by Mary Heaton Vorse, Lloyd Osbourne, Molly Elliot Sewall, Constance DuVeen, Juliet Wilber Tompkins and Ellis O. Jones. Special art and music features of great beauty and value are contributed by Jessie Wilcox Smith, T. K. Hanna, John Rae, Will A. Harding and Helen B. Davis.

The regular fashion, young people's, cooking and housekeeping departments complete an unusually entertaining and helpful number.

Woman's World.

The April number of Woman's World offers to readers an unusually large number of good stories, editorial comment, interesting articles, and departmental suggestions.

The stories are of a distinctly new character. In "Pitfalls I Have Escaped," a bachelor tells the six reasons why he has never married. Crittenden Marriott, in "The Making of a Man," narrates most interestingly a new phase of a woman's love, and its influence on the man, and "Margaret Winston's Story," by Thelma Holbeck Anderson, sounds a warning to girls not to let foolish pride stand in the way of their life's happiness. "At the Three Sorrows," the thrilling serial of life on the Texas Panhandle, by Alice MacGowan, is continued, and Maude Radford Warren recounts the story of a woman who sacrificed her career as a grand opera star to heed the call of love. Strickland Gilliam, too, continues to amuse his readers with quaint anecdotes of his experiences as a traveling lecturer.

"The Greatest Miracle of All," the leading editorial, points out that true happiness and love are not unattainable things but within the reach of all. "Penmanship and Courtesy," by William Leslie French, will assist the curious in deducing the characters of friends and lovers from their handwriting. An article "On Entering Womanhood," by Dr. Edith B. Lowry, has wise counsel for the mothers of growing girls, and the part the daffodil plays in the unique observance of the Easter service on Mt. Rubidoux is interestingly recorded by Georgia Torrey Drinnan.

"The Heart of the House" has an article on "Why Food Spoils," and those who use condensed or evaporated milk will welcome the directions given for its use and the recipes accompanying it. The Home-Sewing page gives complete instructions for making a spring jacket, and the other departments—Fashions, Needlework, Children's Music, Beauty and Household—all unite to offer readers new and practical ideas, which will insure this number of the magazine an unusually hearty welcome.—Woman's World, Chicago. Thirty-five cents.

The Smart Set for April

The April issue of the Smart Set gives evidence of a new spirit in its editorial policy. "Clean, crisp, clever; nothing that will offend good taste!" is the motto in big type on the cover, and this characterization is adhered to consistently throughout the issue. Humor, surprise, thrills, pathos, and startling dramatic climaxes are provided in abundance, but there is a notable absence of the sex stories, the excessive realism and the over frank discussion of social topics that characterized the magazine last year.

The novelette in this April issue is "The House in Demetrius Road," by J. D. Bresford, a novelist whose work is fast gaining important recognition in both America and England. Humor is provided by Frederic Arnold Kummer and Helen Talbot Kummer, whose story, "The Descent of George," is a scorchingly funny account of a veteran of the Balkan wars stranded in America; Freeman Tilden, whose "On Perfect Love" is a delicious satire on eugenic marriage, and Hall Macdonald Hastings who contributes the first of a series of what may be called glorified Juckeberry Alma stories. This called "The Tribe," is a real innovation in The Smart Set. It is the sort of boyhood reminiscences that every man delights to indulge in now and then, and will make the source of much chuckle.

A one act play of peculiarly striking dramatic quality called "The Dragons Claws," by Grant Carpenter, is one of the features of this issue. Other stories of more than ordinary interest are "The Column," by Arthur Stringer; "The Path of the Moth," by Herman Scheffauer; "St. Madron and the Lovers," by Eden Philpotts; "The Mad Devil of Nigger Hill," by Walter S. Kerr; "When the Wine Is In," by Evelyn M. Campbell and "Am-

WORTH KNOWING.

The old finger-nail formula, from early Saxon times, reads as follows:

Cut them on Monday, cut them for health.

Cut them on Tuesday, cut them for wealth.

Cut them on Wednesday, cut them for a letter.

Cut them on Thursday, for something better.

Cut them on Friday, you cut for a wife.

Cut them on Saturday, cut for long life.

Cut them on Sunday, you cut them for evil.

For all of that week you'll be ruled by the devil.

Another version changes the last two lines to the beginning: A man had better never be born, than have his nails on Sunday shorn.

The finger nail grows about two inches a year.

What are the seven Bibles of the world.

bilion," by Frederick Booth. There is some exceptional poetry by George Sterling, Louis Untermeyer, Joyce Kilmer, Robert Loveman, Sara Teasdale, Mahlon Leonard Fisher, Richard Le Gallienne, Brian Hooker, Witter Bynner, Edmund Vance Cook and Ludwig Lewisohn. George Jean Nathan and H. L. Mencken nearly or quite surpass themselves in their dramatic and literary reviews this month. This April issue is clever and interesting, clean through. It lives up to every promise that has been made in the announcements of the past few months. As an all-round, well balanced combination of varied interest, measuring up strictly to the program on which the magazine was founded and on which it made its greatest success, this present issue, it seems to us has never been surpassed. The Smart Set is now edited by John Adams Thayer and a staff composed of Norman Boyer, managing editor; Mark Lee Luther and Harry T. Baker, associate editors.

The Art of Today

A thoughtful and sincere attempt to sum up the situation in art today is to be made in the Century Magazine for April. The editor says that a revolution against settled art standards is now in full career and "it is time that we study signs, seek to define directions, and somewhat forecast the convention that is to come."

Under the general heading of "The Transitional Age in Art" have been gathered five authoritative papers, covering every phase of the subject and profusely illustrated with more than fifty pictures, some of them in full color. The subjects are: I—"Is Our Art Distinctively American?" by John W. Alexander, President National Academy of Design; II—"The Painting of Today," by Edwin E. Blashfield, President Society of Mural Painters; III—"The Painting of Tomorrow," by Ernest L. Blumenschein; IV—"The Point of View of the Modern," by Walter Pach; V—"The Ancestry of Cubism" by J. Hambridge and Gove Hambridge.

CURRENT OPINION

Society Ready to Extend Helping Hand to Criminal Who Is Penitent.

One of the most hopeful signs of the awakening moral and religious conscience of the age, especially in our own land, is found in the fact that the erring and the criminal members of society are no longer regarded as hopelessly, irretrievably lost. Even the man who does not profess to be an orthodox Christian will extend the helping hand to his fallen brother man.

At a time not so remote as to be forgotten by aged citizens of today the man who was once convicted of a felony was given up by society as hopelessly lost, gone forever, shut out from all sunshine. His wings were not only clipped, but broken, and his life henceforth was to be spent in the horrible shades of the underworld. Of course, there were exceptions to this soul pulverizing rule. But the poor wretch who was once shackled, incarcerated and had his body clothed in the lousiest of rags which indicated complete degradation was in nearly all cases a doomed man.

It cannot be denied that thousands of men who were once incarcerated now live useful and even happy lives. Society in its broadened and enlightened charity overlooks the past. This shows that the Master who preached the gospel of hope is being rightly interpreted in this age, in this country. Of course there is a great deal of prejudice to overcome, a great deal of false teaching to combat and an amazing amount of ignorance to enlighten.

But every door is opening. We can hear the creaking and grinding of rust eaten bars as they are being forced from their positions by the enlightenment of the present age. The church has but to enter the doors and take possession.—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army.

Telephone Achievements

TELEPHONE SERVICE OF TO-DAY THE CREATION OF THE BELL CO.

In no line of human endeavor has the inventive brain of the scientist contributed more to the world's progress than by the creation of the art of telephony, of which the Bell system is the embodiment.

When the telephone was born, nothing analogous to telephone service as we now know it existed. There was no tradition to guide, no experience to follow.

The system, the apparatus, the methods—an entire new art had to be created. The art of electrical engineering did not exist. The Bell pioneers, recognizing that success depended upon the highest engineering and technical skill at once organized an experimental and research department which is now directed by a staff of over 550 engineers and scientists, including former professors, post-graduate students, scientific investigators—the graduates of over 70 universities.

From its foundation the company has continuously developed the art. New improvements in telephones, switchboards, lines, cables, have followed one another with remarkable rapidity.

While each successive type of apparatus to the superficial observer suggested similarity, each step in the evolution marked a decided improvement. These changes, this evolution, has not only been continuous, but is continuing. Substantially all of the plant now in use, including telephones, switchboards, cables and wires, has been constructed, renewed or reconstructed in the past 10 years.

Particularly in switchboards have the changes been so radical that installations costing in the aggregate millions have frequently been discarded after only a few years of use.

Since 1877 there have been introduced 53 types and styles of receivers and 73 types and styles of transmitters. Of the 12,000,000 telephone receivers and transmitters owned by the Bell Company January 1, 1914, none were in use prior to 1902, while the average age is less than five years.

Within 10 years we have expended for construction and reconstruction an amount more than equal to the present book value of our entire plant.

Long-distance and underground transmission was the most formidable scientific problem confronting the telephone experts.

The retarding effect of the earth on the telephone current often impeded conversation through one mile underground as much as through 100 miles overhead. Overhead conversation had its distinct limitations.

No possible improvement in the telephone transmitter could of itself solve these difficulties.

The solution was only found in the cumulative effect of improvements, great and small, in telephone, transmitter, line, cable, switchboard, and every other piece of apparatus of plant required in the transmission of speech.

While the limit of commercial overhead talking had increased from strictly local to over 1,000 miles as early as 1893, it was not until 1905 that conversation could be had over long-distance circuits of which as much as 20 miles was in underground cables. By 1904 underground talking distance had increased to 90 miles. By 1912 it was possible to talk underground from New York to Washington.

It was then that the construction of underground conduits from Boston to Washington was determined upon—not that it was expected to get a through underground talk between those places, but in case of storm or blizzard, to utilize intermediate sections in connection with the overhead. Our persistent study and incessant experimentation have produced results more remarkable still.

We have perfected cables, apparatus and methods that have overcome obstacles heretofore regarded as insuperable both to long-distance overhead and underground conversation.

Underground conversation is now possible between Boston and Washington, four times the length of the longest European underground line. This enabled the Bell System in the recent great storm, so destructive on land and sea, to maintain communication for the public between all the principal points on the Atlantic seaboard.

Telephone communication is established between New York and Denver, is potentially possible between all points in the United States, and by 1915 will be an accomplished fact between New York and San Francisco.

In our use of methods or apparatus, we are committed to no one system. We own, control or have the right to use inventions necessary to operate any system recognized or accepted as the most efficient. The Bell System must always recognize, and in its selection must always be governed by the necessities of a national service, with its complex requirements, which is infinitely more exacting than local or limited service.

These achievements represent vast expenditures of money and immense concentration of effort, which have been justified by results of immeasurable benefit to the public. No local company unaided could bear the financial or scientific burden of this work. Such results are possible only through a centralized general staff, avoiding wasteful duplication of effort, working out problems common to all, for the benefit of all.

The pioneers of the Bell System recognized that telephone service, as they saw it, was in the broadest sense a public utility, that upon them rested a public obligation to give the best possible service at the most reasonable rates consistent with risk, investment and the continued improvement and maintenance of its property.

Without this expenditure of millions and concentration of effort, the telephone art as it exists could not have been developed.

What we have done in working out these great problems in the past should be accepted as a guarantee of what we will do in the future.

THEO. N. VAIL, President.

PILLSBURY IS A CANDIDATE

Aspires to Be the Republican Candidate for Governor This Fall.

Rosecrans W. Pillsbury of London-derry, the former proprietor of the Manchester Union, today announced his candidacy for governor on the republican ticket. The letter announcing his candidacy is as follows:

"Manchester, N. H., March 19, 1914.

"I shall be a candidate for the nomination for governor in the republican primary. Within the past few weeks I have traveled extensively over the country and have found that there is a general movement in progress for a strong republican campaign. I have had conferences with representative republicans throughout the state and the many assurances of support I have received have influenced me to put forward my name.

"The present democratic administration in New Hampshire has proven itself inefficient and ought not to be continued in power. I believe that the cost of maintaining the various institutions, commissions and state departments has been extravagant, unreasonable and altogether out of proportion to the cost of similar work in other states. I believe that the highway department should be taken from the control of the governor and council, and that the construction and maintenance of the state highways should be placed on a sound business basis under the general supervision of a competent and responsible superintendent of highways.

"I recognize with others that there is great inequality in service rendered by various state officials and members of boards and commissions in proportion to their compensation. I believe that there should be a thorough investigation of money paid to state officers, and a re-arranging of salaries so that present waste may be eliminated while all public servants are given a reasonable and adequate compensation.

"In the interests of economy, I believe that the junkets of the governor and council should be stopped and that there should be no needless expensive meetings of the council. I believe that the office of the governor of New Hampshire should be open to all persons having legitimate business, during the hours when other state offices are open.

"I believe that it is unreasonable and should be made illegal for the governor to appoint members of his own council to salaried positions.

"If elected, I shall use every legitimate means in my power to bring about these suggested reforms in the administration of affairs. I shall also devote my entire time to the service of the state, which I am prepared to do because I have relieved myself to a large extent of my business interests.

"I have been a republican always and was among the first to advocate reforms which, while they did not at the time meet with the approval of party leaders, have since become recognized as sound public policy. I shall endeavor to conduct a vigorous campaign from the beginning and shall hope to visit all parts of the state to meet the people and discuss with them matters pertaining to the conduct of state affairs.

"I am confident that, if I am given the support of those who share in the views I have outlined, I can lead the party to victory.

"ROSECRANS W. PILLSBURY."

CHOKES TO DEATH

Nashua, March 18.—Edward A. A. Dionne, one of the most popular letter carriers was choked to death this evening while eating a piece of meat and laughing at the same time, at Burke's restaurant on High street.

It was not known for some time after his removal to Memorial hospital that life was extinct as the physicians worked over him for more than an hour in the hope of bringing him back to life.

He failed to respond to the oxygen administration, although the piece of meat which was lodged in his throat was removed by the doctors.

COME EARLY

DORR APPEARS UNMOVED

Boston, March 18.—William A. Dorra who is awaiting execution at the Charlestown state prison for the killing of George E. Marsh at Lynn, was informed yesterday afternoon by his attorney E. Neil Barney of Lynn, that the Advisory Board of Pardons and Parole was divided on the matter of the commutation of his sentence.

The news did not appear to affect Dorra in the least, and he appeared to be unconcerned. The warden asked him if he would care to read the papers containing the disconcerting reports and he replied: "Let them come; they don't bother me."

Dorra is visited daily by Rev. Mr. Harriman of the First Baptist church of Lynn, his spiritual adviser. The prisoner appears to be eating and sleeping well and seems wholly oblivious to his plight.

RAILROAD NOTES

There were 241 killed and 4011 injured in train accidents in the United States during the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1913. In other than train accidents the killed numbered 2830, and injured 19,763. In industrial accidents not involved in train operation, the killed were 182 and injured 32,878, making totals of 3673 killed and 56,642 injured. Compared with corresponding quarter for 1912 (these figures show a total increase of 64 killed and 5311 injured. Collisions increased by 97 and derailments decreased by 119.

WASHING POLISHING

These parts do an immense amount of work in propelling your car—they transmit the engine's power to the rear axle—consequently they wear and need expert attention at least every year to take up the wear and replace worn and weak parts.

If your car seems to "gather itself together" before it moves instead of starting as a unit you should have us overhaul these parts now—something is worn and loose and is sure to break at the wrong moment. Let us overhaul your car this month—and have it in good shape for the new season.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD IN PARIS

Fear of a Rivalry Uprising is Keeping the Country Uneasy.

Paris, March 18.—The appearance of armed detachments of Republican Guards posted at strategic points of Paris today added to the tense excitement aroused among the various political factions by the assassination of Gabriel Cabanet, editor of the Figaro, by Mme. Callaux, wife of the Minister of Finance.

Everywhere in those quarters where there was likelihood of trouble, the police were supported by military, in readiness to be called on to suppress disorders.

The offices of the Figaro, the Chamber of Deputies, the residence of M. Callaux and St. Lazare prison, where his wife has occupied a cell since she killed the editor to clear her husband's name, all were magnets that attracted the populace today. In the vicinity strong bodies of police were on duty, prepared to quell disturbance.

In the southern part of Paris, in the Latin Quarter and in the working class districts, the police kept zealous watch. Several times they cleared away noisy groups who, however, re-assembled as soon as the police had passed.

Mme. Callaux a Popular Heroine
Mme. Callaux seems today to have become a popular heroine amid the turmoil. Among the crowds of excited, gesticulating people, her name is heard constantly. She is talked of as the victim of her love for her husband, and as his instrument in committing the crime which has robbed the press of a prominent writer and the French Cabinet of its leading spirit.

The crowds have adopted as their own the assertion of Deputy Delahaye in the Chamber last night, that Callaux Ministers nowadays send their wives to kill those obstructing their path. The excitement among the populace is worked upon by the many sensational newspapers among the 135 daily publications of Paris. These exaggerate, invent and hint at things, and the paper vendors sell the insinuations among the crowd, exciting the people still further.

Mme. Callaux meanwhile sleeps on a narrow iron bedstead in the prison of St. Lazare. Her hitherto remarkably calm attitude was said today to be breaking down under the torture of being always under observation. She has never for a moment left alone. Hours of runs, two at a time, sit in the same small cell with her, whether she is sleeping or waking.

Roads these constant companions prison waitresses frequently look into the cell through the finely meshed wire partition, in order to see that no breach of the prison regulations is committed.

The warden in the prison talk among themselves of the firmness with which the woman, accustomed to luxury and to moving in fashionable society, endures the restraint.

Callaux' Student Friends Ejected.
Twenty University of Paris students belonging to a revolutionary group, began to chant in one of the lecture rooms today, "Vive Callaux," whereupon the other students attacked them in force. The Callaux adherents were armed with stout canes and fought desperately, but they finally were overpowered and thrown into the street.

Numerous other incidents in which the police were forced to intervene occurred today in the University quarter of the city. There was much disorder in the class rooms.

Scandal of Pressure on Court.
Great animation was shown by the French Senators when they met today to discuss the scandal that has arisen in connection with the pressure alleged to have been brought to bear by Ministers to postpone the trial of Henri Rochette on the charge of ex-ecutive swindling.

The name of M. Callaux had been mentioned often in discussions of the Rochette affair, but further debate on the matter was delayed by the passing of a motion to refer to a committee the resolution on the subject adopted by the Chamber of Deputies.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast if Back Hurts or Bladder is Troubling You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms acids which clog the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poison from the blood. Then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive full or sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will get fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot hurt; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

JESTS—DOMESTIC VARIETY
The H. C. of L. Has Evolved Two Persistent Types

From the high cost of living two jests are evolved for us.

The first is about a young couple who have discovered how to make both ends meet. They begin dinner with oxtail soup and end with head cheese. You'll have to study quite a while to get this one.

The other is about another young couple who tried to economize by going "back to the soil." They had acres and freedom was at the end of a "virgin forest." They lived on the vegetables they raised—meat was too dear to be thought of. But one snowy day the husband took his gun and started out for the woods.

He had been gone two hours when his wife heard his "cheery" shout. She rushed to the door—he was coming with the carcass of some creature he had slain.

"Meat—meat at last!" he shouted. "What sort of meat?" she cried. "Venison!"

She sank to the ground in a state of utter collapse. "We can't eat it," she sobbed over and over again. "Venison is too dear, too!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DID YOU HEAR THAT LIGHT?

If Not Your Hearing May Be Defective

It is no unusual thing to see a ray of light, but have you ever heard one? Recent experiments prove that a beam of light can under certain conditions, produce perfectly clear and distinct sounds.

A ray of sunlight is thrown through a lens on a glass vessel that contains lampblack, colored silk or worsted. A disk with slits or openings cut in it is made to revolve swiftly in this beam of light, so as to cut up and to cause alternate flashes of light and shadow. When you place your ear to the glass vessel you can hear strange sounds as long as the flashing beam falls upon the vessel.

A still more extraordinary effect is produced when the beams of sunlight is made to pass through a prism, so as to produce the solar spectrum. The disk is turned rapidly and the colored light of the rainbow breaks through it and falls on the glass vessel. Now if you place your ear to the glass you will hear sounds from certain parts of the spectrum, but none from the others.

For example if the vessel contains red worsted and the green light flashes upon it, quite loud sounds will be given out. Only feeble sounds will be heard when the red and blue ends of the spectrum fall upon the vessel. Other colors produce no sound at all. Green silk gives out sound best in a red light. Every kind of material gives more or less sound in different colors and no sound at all in others.—Harper's Weekly.

ROYAL ARCANUM HAVE A "BIG NIGHT"

Initiate a Class of Twenty-Six and Entertain the Grand Officers of the State.

Alpha Council, Royal Arcanum, on Wednesday evening celebrated what they termed "Big Night," so-called from the fact that the Council had their guests and initiated a class of twenty-six.

There was a large number present. In fact the lodge room was crowded. There were present: Grand Regent Frank E. Leavitt, Portsmouth; Grand Vice Regent, Harry E. Wallis of Concord; Grand Orator, E. D. Smith of Dover; Grand Secretary, James B. Adams of Dover; Grand Treasurer, Albert J. Weeks, Exeter; Past Grand Regent, L. B. Beyer, Dover; First Grand Regent, Harry E. Yeaton, Portsmouth; Grand Medical Examiner, Dr. Fred S. Towle, Portsmouth.

The principal guest was Supreme

March 1 but owing to the disturbed condition of affairs were delayed and on March 5 the Brazilian government proclaimed a state of siege in the city of Rio Janeiro, Nithoroy and Petropolis. A strict censorship over the telegraph lines has been maintained since then, a large number of opposition papers have been suspended and several editors arrested. On March 10 martial law was proclaimed throughout the state of Ceara, where strong revolutionary movement was in progress.

HAMPTON

Miss Minnie E. Arnold of Lynn, Mass., is visiting friends in town. Hampton was well represented in Portsmouth on Saturday to enjoy the dollar day.

Mrs. Thomas Holt and daughter, are visiting in Manchester.

Miss Emily Small and Ernestine Cole are planning to go to Washington with the Senior class on Friday.

Mrs. E. Thibault of Boston is visiting her friend, Mrs. Fred Quimby.

Mrs. Martha Locke and daughter leave on Friday for a trip to Washington.

Mrs. H. N. Thompson entertained the H. T. G. on Thursday, Mrs. E. G. Cole, Mrs. H. Noyes and Mrs. E. Hanson were guests. The favors were won by Mrs. James Janvin, Mrs. Emma Young, Mrs. Charles Batchelder and Mrs. W. J. Drew. The consolation, by Miss M. Toppin. A very dainty lunch was served.

On Tuesday evening, Miss Mary C. Toppin gave a linen shower in honor of Miss Myron Hanson. Twenty friends and four classmates were present. Miss Hanson received many handsome gifts. A charming dish supper, with cake and coffee were served. At midnight all departed for their homes, wishing Elvina Hanson and Kenneth Ross a pleasant life journey.

Decide Yourself

The Opportunity is Here Backed by Portsmouth Testimony

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement.

Read Portsmouth endorsement. Read the statements of Portsmouth citizens.

And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it.

George S. Chandler, 420 Pleasant street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I do a great deal of walking in my work and in that way my kidneys became weakened, causing me much suffering. About three years ago I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. They cured me and I have had little trouble since. Sometimes when I overwork or do any heavy lifting, I notice lameness in my back, but on such occasions a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills bring relief. I have recommended this remedy to many of my friends, and in every instance where it has been tried, benefit has followed. Doan's Kidney Pills can be procured at Phillips' Drug Store and should be given a thorough trial by every kidney sufferer."

CARING FOR CHILDREN'S FEET

It is most important to a child's welfare that it should have the right kind of shoes. Just any kind will not do—ill-fitting ones are likely to cause troubles that will cause much suffering in after life. Many able shoemakers have spent years in studying the needs of children's feet. They have designed shoes on correct lines, have made them of right leathers, and have built them with honest workmanship. It is not our purpose to sing the praises of any one make or kind. The right shoes are not hard to find. Every good shoemaker knows them and carries them. First choose your dealer with care—you will find the advertisement of the better ones in this newspaper from day to day. Sometimes they specialize on a particular kind or make of shoes. TRAIN HITS DEER.

Animal Drops Dead on Ice After the Accident.

A large buck deer was struck by a train on the Portsmouth and Dover branch of the Boston and Maine on Wednesday. The animal is said to have ran onto the ice of the river after being injured and when half way across the stream dropped dead. The police of Dover started an investigation on the report that the deer had been fired on.

Mrs. W. H. Smith and daughter, Mrs. Edna Jenkins of Maplewood avenue are in Lynn, Mass., called there by the serious illness of Mrs. Susan Jenkins.

FOR THE NEW ENGLAND TITLE

Wenehasa Club Basket Ball Team Will Meet Fall River

The Wenehasa Club basketball team composed of high school students, who are arranging to contest with the Fall River Technical High for the New England championship has made an enviable record this season to date, winning 16 out of 17 games. All the players are Portsmouth High students but because the school board allows only baseball and football as major sports, they are unable to play under the school name.

By their defeat of Manchester High, the locals claim the state championship and having also defeated Deering High of Portland, champions of Maine, they are claiming the interscholastic championship of Maine, as well as of New Hampshire.

In Captain Charles Brackett the team has had an ideal leader and a fast player at both forward and back. Badger, Mugridge and Sanderson have all distinguished themselves both offensively and defensively. Butler, the midget forward is exceptionally fast, while Murch prior to being injured, was putting up a sensational game at back. Howell and Bruce have also been important features in the team's success.

Sherman P. Newton has managed the team ably and has had the support of the citizens to an extent never before known in the history of the amateur game in this city.

Arrangements are under way now for a post season series between the Wenehasa Club and either Fall River Technical High or Rogers High of Newport, R. I., for the New England title.

No little of the credit of the team's success belongs to "Hokie" Cragen, an old professional basketball player who has worked faithfully in developing the team.

Premier Scenic Programme

Today Miss Belle Barron, our charming soprano is singing "Back to the Dreams of Old," a song composed by Miss J. Arlene Perkins of Ogunquit. This is Miss Perkins' first attempt as a composer and her many friends are anxious to hear "how the song goes."

With this is offered the Scenic's usual good run of pictures—"Death's Door," is a two reel feature with a sensational climax, when the mother in trying to see her child, falls several stories to the ground. "A Romance of the Sea," is a feature such as everybody likes, carrying a pretty love story throughout. Tonight is the last chance to see this installment of "Our Mutual Girl." Some more pretty gowns and interesting scenes in New York.

Tomorrow and Saturday we offer the two reel feature "Baffles the Gentleman Burglar." This is a Keystone comedy and will be particularly interesting to the children on Saturday.

Monday comes "The Star of India," in four parts. Featuring Fannie will hold a meeting at the yard during the noon hour on Saturday next.
